NO.39 A MID Server reached three Windows Server machines. All of them have the same login credentials but different IP addresses:

– 10.100.1.11

– 10.100.1.22

– 10.100.1.33

One more Windows Server machine has been found by the MID Server but it has different login credentials and its IP address is 10.100.1.44.

Given that during discovery two different Discovery Credential records were created, one for the 10.100.1.11 server and the other for the 10.100.1.44 server. Which scenario is the most likely for servers

10.100.1.22 and 10.100.1.33?

Response:
* Both 10.100.1.22 and 10.100.1.33 will be inaccessible by Discovery.
* Both 10.100.1.22 and 10.100.1.33 require their own credential records.
* Both 10.100.1.22 and 10.100.1.33 will have a credential affinity with the 10.100.1.44 credentials.
* Both 10.100.1.22 and 10.100.1.33 will have a credential affinity with the 10.100.1.11 server credentials.
